Marcel Pronovost Scholarship

INTRODUCTION

Marcel Pronovost is from Shawinigan, Quebec. He holds a master's degree in political science from the University of Ottawa. He has spent his entire career working in the field of communications within the federal government. Now retired, he is interested in history and in heritage preservation. He is a published author whose two historical novels tell the stories of 17th century French-Canadian fur traders and their families, and he has also given lectures on fur trading in New France. As the founder of two folk dance troupes, he is very involved in folk arts: he is a past-president of the Ottawa Folk Arts Council and of the Ontario Folk Arts Council, and his volunteerism has been recognized by the Ontario government. His love of the French language has motivated him to help young people pursue their studies in French at the University of Ottawa, his alma mater.
