Dr. Peter Bryce Indigenous Scholarship in Medicine

INTRODUCTION

This scholarship has been created by the Knox Presbyterian Church of Ottawa as part of our efforts toward reconciliation and creating opportunity for Indigenous students enrolled in the Faculty of Medicine at the University of Ottawa.

Dr. Peter Henderson Bryce (1853–1932) was a pioneer in Canadian public health and sanitation policy. He is best remembered for his efforts to improve the health and living conditions of Indigenous people. His report on the Indian schools of Manitoba and the Northwest Territories exposed the unsanitary conditions of residential schools across Canada and prompted national calls for residential school reform.

This scholarship has been created by Knox Presbyterian Church members to highlight the path towards reconciliation.

PURPOSE OF FUND

To support Indigenous students pursuing an MD through the Indigenous UGME program at the Faculty of Medicine.
